

area around the community; selected KIWATA as the marketing name for the water and financed the entire project through private funds.

Because of this team effort, The Longford Water Company is now ready to produce, market and distribute KIWATA water. According to Wava Kramer, president of the board of managers, the company has raised the real estate tax base of the city, provided local employment and contributed to the positive image of the Longford community.

Ms. Kramer also noted the entire effort has resulted in other benefits. "Langford water has been long known as nature's finest gift to Kansas," said Kramer. "Another gift is that the process of creating Longford Water Company has brought our community together. Our town is small in size but big in spirit."

For rural communities to survive and prosper into the future, citizens must be willing to create their own opportunities for success. The Longford Water Company is an example of how hard work, innovation, professional management and community pride can create just such an opportunity.

Citizens throughout the First Congressional District of Kansas are working together to enhance the quality of life in their communities. Longford Water Company, LLC is a success story that demonstrates how teamwork and creative thinking can make a positive difference in rural America.

HONORING THE LIFE OF ERICH R.
WEBER, OWNER OF WEBER'S BAKERY

HON. DANIEL LIPINSKI

OF ILLINOIS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, April 26, 2005

Mr. LIPINSKI. Mr. Speaker, I rise today to pay tribute to the memory of a member of my community who truly exemplified the dedication and hard work required of his ancient profession.

As the longtime owner and operator of a popular Chicago neighborhood bakery, Erich R. Weber never knew an easy day.

For many years, the Chicago native would begin his workday at 2 a.m., breaking by mid-afternoon to have dinner with his family, then returning to the bakery later in the evening. Family members said that in addition to keeping the business side running, he was also the baker behind many of the pastries that disappeared quickly from the shelves.

"He was first and foremost a baker," said his son Michael. "He wore his whites every day."

Mr. Weber, age 71, the longtime owner of Weber's Bakery on the Southwest Side, died April 7, 2005.

Mr. Weber graduated from St. Rita High School in 1951. He received a bachelor's degree in baking science and management from Florida State University in Tallahassee in 1955. That same year he married his wife of 49 years, Bernadine, a fellow student.

Mr. Weber learned to bake from his father, a German immigrant, who founded the bakery in Chicago in 1930. Originally on Kedzie Avenue, the bakery moved in the 1940s to 63rd Street, and in 1979 to 7055 W. Archer Ave. in the Garfield Ridge neighborhood.

After serving 2 years in the Air Force during the late 1950s, Mr. Weber returned to Chicago, where he joined his father at the bakery. For several years, father and son served as co-presidents of the Chicago Lawn Chamber of Commerce.

"With his college background, my father brought an understanding of the business end of things," said Mr. Weber's son, Michael, who now owns and operates the bakery. "He was technology wise and willing to take chances."

Family members said that when more Hispanic residents moved into the bakery's neighborhood, Mr. Weber introduced more ethnic pastries such as tres leche cake, or three milk cake, which became popular with his customers.

"He was very good at adapting to the changing needs and times of the neighborhood, but he never gave in to trends," his son said.

The father of seven sons, including his late son, David, Mr. Weber often sought the help of family at the bakery, especially during holidays.

"One of my fondest memories is of Dad and me rolling hundreds of loaves of bread during Holy Week at Easter time, and all before the sun came up," said his son Michael. "It was a chance to be alone with him and just talk."

After retiring in 1996, Mr. Weber spent much of his time traveling with his wife and enjoying winters at his home in Naples, FL.

Mr. Speaker, I extend my heartfelt condolences to Mrs. Weber and Mike Weber, as well as Mr. Weber's five other sons, Mark, Paul, Phillip, Stephen and Kurt; his brother, Gilbert; and his 21 grandchildren.

HONORING THE CONTRIBUTIONS OF BARBARA KEMPER-NOLAN

HON. HENRY CUELLAR

OF TEXAS

IN THE HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

Tuesday, April 26, 2005

Mr. CUELLAR. Mr. Speaker, I rise to recognize the many accomplishments of Barbara Kemper-Nolan, Saegert sixth grade teacher.

Ms. Kemper-Nolan is a sixth grade teacher specializing in resource math and language arts. She has two years of teaching experience in the Seguin Independent School District, five years as an instructional aide and one year as a substitute. With her short time at Saegert she has already started to make an impact on her students.

Ms. Kemper-Nolan has a Bachelor of Science in Psychology, a Master of Counseling from Arizona State University, and a Special Education Alternative Certification in grades prekindergarten through twelve.

When Ms. Kemper-Nolan was asked, "why would someone choose to work with some of the most challenging students who are faced with daunting intellectual and emotional obstacles," she quickly replied that "there is no greater feeling than watching the light go on in the eyes of a child, especially a child who has given up on him or herself . . . one teachable moment at a time."

Through her initiative, energy, and audacity, Ms. Kemper-Nolan proves to be an exemplary teacher, and a blessing to the people in her community. She has an excellent career ahead of her, and I wish her the best of luck.
